

ANACOSTIA CELEBRATION WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

Community Event, Postponed Last Friday, to Be Concluded Regardless of Weather.

Anacostia is "prepared" to complete tonight its community celebration which was postponed from last Friday on account of the rain. A meeting of the citizens' association last night discussed the matter. William J. Latimer, chairman of the committee, stated that beginning promptly at 8 o'clock tonight the country circus would entertain those gathered at Fairlawn, and that he had made a special request of the teachers of the schools to eliminate the home work in order that all children would have an opportunity of witnessing this feature. Prof. Oliver, who was a clown in the original Harrison circus, and his troupe will provide the entertainment.

Following the circus the association will go to the home of Commissioner Newman, Mr. Fullman, President Coloddy of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, Mr. Edwards of the Lincoln Park association, several officials of the street railway company, a special representative from the Washington Steel and Ordnance Company, Mr. McCarroll of the Park View association, W. W. Price of the Public Improvement Association of Congress Heights and others. Mr. Latimer wished it specially known that all persons invited to attend the celebration were expected to be on time, and that the cards issued then would be used for tonight. In case of rain the exercises will be in Masonic Hall. Local citizens on the program, Mr. R. A. Pyles, Maurice Otterback and Adolph Gude. Mr. Latimer, as chairman of the general committee, will preside.

Prizes Awarded Tonight.

Those who participated in the boat races and automobile parade last Friday night will also be interested in the announcement of the winners of these events by the chairman of the judges, M. C. Hazen, which will be a feature of the celebration tonight, and following the announcement the prizes will be presented by Commissioner Newman.

The young people will be given an opportunity to dance at the close of the exercises, and from 10 to 11 o'clock a display of fireworks will be given. At the meeting last night it was decided to co-operate with the Garfield Citizens' Association in securing a street railway along Good Hope road from Anacostia to Good Hope, and from there to the District line, to provide a growing section now without any permanent means of transportation.

Several committees have been appointed to solicit funds to defray the expenses in connection with the celebration. A small amount is still needed.

Dr. Frank Butler Trotter has been elected president of West Virginia University at Morgantown. He has been acting president since the resignation of Thomas E. Hodges, two years ago.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE SKEPTICAL OF RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

Of Special Body to Consider Their Plank Three Favor It, Four Are Opposed and the Other Two Are Non-Committal.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 15.—Suffragists fighting for an equal rights plank in the democratic national platform today regarded the resolutions subcommittee appointed last night as none too favorable to their cause. Only three of its members, Representative Rainey of Illinois, Senators Walsh of Montana and Hollis of New Hampshire are out-spoken for suffrage. It was declared, while four, Senator Martin of Virginia, Gov. Stanley of Kentucky, Senator Pomeroy of Ohio and Representative Fitzgerald of New York, are against it. The other two, Chairman Stone and former Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, are believed to hold the administration view of the situation, which is for the endorsement of suffrage, but not for a constitutional amendment plank.

The subcommittee was declared by democratic leaders to be inclined enough toward suffrage to give it only about the same measure of endorsement as is contained in the republican platform. Such a declaration would be entirely satisfactory to the National American Woman Suffrage Association,

Final Drive on Committee.

The fight for an equal rights plank in the democratic platform closed yesterday with the "Golden Lane" demonstration, and last night all camps began their final drive on members of the resolutions committee and three cabinet members, Secretaries Baker, Daniels and Houston, who are here. Hope for victory never was brighter with the suffragists, for the conviction that the platform will favor their movement grew hourly. The big question now is what form the plank will take. Whether it will be stronger than that contained in the republican platform, cannot be forecast until the committee takes final action.

President Wilson, among others, has submitted a plank to the committee, but last night it was said that there was much doubt if it would be written into the platform. While the committee had not passed formally on the President's plank, the opinion was expressed by several members that it was not specific enough to be effective, and a plank of stronger wording should be inserted.

A plank approved by Secretary Daniels also has found opposition in the National American Woman Suffrage Association, because it is too broad and long. Its text, declaring in favor of immediate passage by Congress of a constitutional amendment, however, is favored by both the national and the woman's party.

Representative Baker of California, a member of the committee, said that he was trying to assemble the ideas of all the suffragists and express them in a plank which would be adopted. He believes the committee will insert a plank at least as strong as that presented by the President, and that it favors a much stronger one.

The "Golden Lane" Demonstration.

Staged by the nationals today was the most elaborate and picturesque suffrage display ever given in St. Louis. Several thousand women, variously armed from 6,000 to 8,000, marched in yellow sashes and bearing yellow suffrage banners and umbrellas, formed a lane on both sides of Locust street between the Jefferson Hotel and the convention hall for democratic delegates to pass through on the way to the convention. The women were stationed four feet apart, facing the center of the street. They did not march, save more than a few hundred feet toward the close of the demonstration. President Wilson provided for every woman, but only a few of them were used.

The demonstration was far from "talkless," as it had been advertised. For just a few minutes after it started the women stood up straight, faced forward, and did not say a word. Then they began to shift about uneasily and show decided inclination to step over and have a word with their neighbors. And the men folks who came along seemed interested and wanted to talk with the women. So in a very short time all good resolutions and promises of silence to the "Golden Lane" were awry and the talk started. Camp chairs, provided for the weary, were pulled closer to one another, and everybody indulged in a few social remarks. The conversation never became loud, though, and none of the women shouted at passing delegates, which really was the result that the "generals" wanted to attain. She desired a dignified display, and it was all of that.

"Suffrage Plank" Hard to Drive.

Probably the unhappiest man in the city, however, was Henry Smith, colored, who had to drive Suffrage Plank, the St. Louis suffragists' donkey, in the parade. Suffrage Plank is only about ten hands high, but he is all feet, and he used them for other purposes besides walking during most of the day.

He kicked back at the cart in which Henry rode so hard that toward the close of the parade Henry let one foot drag along on the ground, "setting" his first attitude. And when the donkey was not kicking he was backing the thoroughly frightened Henry around Locust street, or stalling street cars by balking in the middle of the track.

"I don't know how much good this suffrage parade is going to do toward getting women votes," Henry exclaimed in a moment of temporary silence on the donkey's part, "but it certainly don't make me no stronger for it. These suffragists have made such a pet of this mule that I can't do nothing without feedin' him sugar, and I ain't got a single lump."

"Antis" Have Their Innings.

Last night, in public hearings, the resolutions committee gave the suffragists and anti-suffragists an hour. The time was divided fifteen minutes each to the National American Woman's Suffrage Association, the National Woman's Party, the Southern States Conference and the Progressives. The anti made the first argument through Mrs. Arthur Dodge of New York and Mrs. A. J. George of Massachusetts. Mrs. Dodge contended the record of the last four years showed that the states in which suffrage had been an issue registered against enfranchising women. She argued that, in view of that fact, the men in the convention should represent the women of those states. "Don't believe them when they say they have 4,000,000 votes to throw against it," she said. Mrs. George said the 4,000,000 are not going to say that suffrage is first. It must be apparent that when they divide into three detachments before this committee to present their views they cannot agree even on the one thing they want—suffrage.

Miss Ann Martin, for the woman's party, told the committee that the matter of practical politics it should remember that the 4,000,000 woman voters in the twelve suffrage states might determine where ninety-one electoral votes would go next winter. She said it would be better for the democrats to conciliate the women than the progressives.

MONITOR SURVIVOR HERE.

Dr. G. M. Weeks Seeks President's Aid for Newark Project.

Dr. Granville M. Weeks of Newark, N. J., who claims to be the only living survivor of the crew of the famous Monitor, which fought and vanquished the Merrimack in Hampton roads, called at the White House today to see President Wilson regarding a building to be erected in Newark commemorating the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of that city. Dr. Weeks was wounded on the Monitor, one arm being torn out of its socket. Retiring from navy he was appointed by President Lincoln as a surgeon in the army.

REPLIES TO CRITICISMS OF CHOICE OF HUGHES

Representative Mann Cites Instances Where Democrats Nominated High Court Judges.

Minority Leader Mann took occasion today to reply on the floor of the House to criticisms which have been made by democrats of the selection by the republicans of a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States for their presidential nominee, particularly the statement given out by Speaker Clark.

Mr. Mann pointed out that the democrats had not been slow to nominate judges of high courts for elective office, and mentioned in particular Judge Alton B. Parker of New York and Judge Grey of Delaware, one of whom was nominated for the presidency and the other was balloted for in convention.

He told the House that Judge Parker not only did not resign his position on the bench in New York upon being nominated for the presidency, but he continued to sit on the bench until August following his nomination.

Holds Criticism Unwarranted.

"The republicans did not make any criticism of the selection of a judge of one of the high courts of the land as the democratic nominee," said Mr. Mann, "and there was no reason then or now for such criticism."

Referring to the statement made by Speaker Clark criticizing the nomination of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Mann said that Speaker Clark had been appointed to no office by Judge Parker of his nomination for the presidency, and then he quoted from Speaker Clark's speech on that occasion. Speaker Clark commented at that time on the wisdom in selecting a man for the nomination or President who had made a splendid judge in "one of the highest courts in the land."

SOFT-SHELLED CRABS SCARCE.

Supply, However, Is Increasing in Local Markets.

While there has been little or no increase in the number of hard-shelled crabs being received here from the lower Potomac, there has been a substantial increase in the quantity of soft-shelled crabs, though receipts are still below the average. Yesterday the dealers at the wharf market reported having received 300 dozen crabs, about twice as many as had been received any day so far this season. Not only has there been an increase in the number of crabs received, but they are larger and in better condition than those received earlier in the season. They sold from 40 cents to $1 a hundred, according to size.

Usually at this time in June soft and hard crabs are being received daily in large quantities. A few years ago it was nothing uncommon for a hundred or two hundred barrels of hard crabs to be received on this market almost daily. Now if all the dealers together receive thirty barrels the receipts are heavy in consequence of this shortage crabs have been selling at fancy figures throughout the season.

VON PAPEN IN HOLLAND.

Organizing Secret Information Service Is Dutch Report.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, May 26.—Capt. Franz von Papen, recalled at the request of the United States government as military attaché of the German embassy at Washington, and who has come to Holland on a secret mission, has a purpose which is three-fold, according to the Amsterdam Telegraph. This newspaper does not mention Capt. von Papen by name but alludes to him as a "first-class specialist" who only recently arrived here after covering himself with world-wide fame in the exercise of functions in another neutral country.

The Telegraph says that the "specialist" has come here, first, to obtain information of military and political nature; second, to watch foreigners residing or visiting Holland, and, third, to endeavor to influence public opinion in favor of Germany.

The German "secret information service" in Holland is being reorganized, the Telegraph asserts, the efforts of the "specialist" along this line being the centralizing of diverse and scattered elements of the Teutonic espionage service in this country. He has established the Central Protective Service at The Hague and progress has been made with the organization of the service at Rotterdam, according to the newspaper, which declares that similar efforts at Amsterdam have been a little backward.

In the Rotterdam branch of the service, the Telegraph says, 142 men and fifty-two women have been enrolled, recruited principally among waiters, porters and other hotel and cafe employees.
